Client Project

NUSIGN industries, producer of state-of-the-art parking bumpers, needed office and storage space for a new manufacturing facility on Palmdale, CA.

Client Need

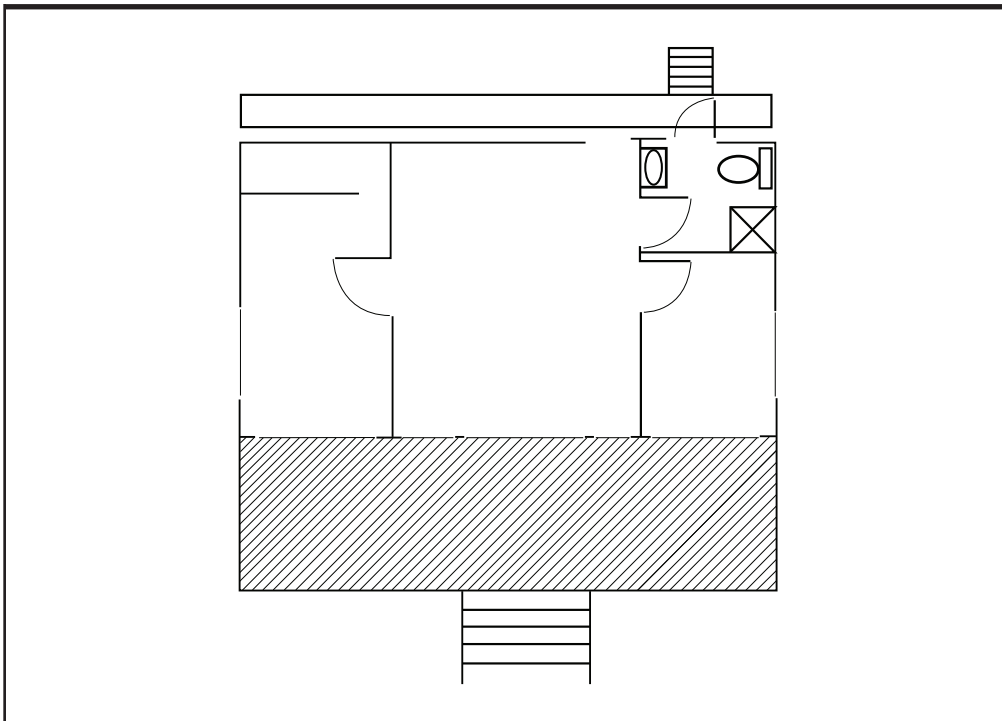

Located in the desert adjacent to a quarry, David Spiller, President of Manufacturing, wanted the site to be aesthetically pleasing as well as functional. and stand out next to the giant concrete slab from which they cut their products. But most of all, he wanted his ideas to count. Working with a company who would be a good partner was a top priority. Williams Scotsman was chosen as that partner.

The Williams Scotsman Solution

Based on David Spiller's original designs, Williams Scotsman produced an atypical, custom double-wide office trailer. The 60'x 24' facility included an expansive living space with a TV, stereo, ping-pong table, full kitchen, a bathroom with showers and lockers, and a large office with a walk-in closet. Tinted windows were a must to block the desert heat. On the exterior, a Western-style front porch with a vaulted beam roof graced the entrance. Skirting and planters filled with flowers artfully hid the trailer's wheels and a waterfall and pond completed the pleasing landscaping. Even the storage space was artfully designed with attractive aluminum siding.

The Result

NUSIGN's six-acre operation in the desert is, in David Spiller's words, a "little oasis". Beyond the facility's manufacturing and storage capabilities, employees can recharge by using on-site a basketball and volleyball court, a 9-hole putting green, and a gazebo with an octagonal barbecue capable of feeding more than 100 people.

"The production was amazingly quick and the service was friendly...What I have is an entirely unique space with all the amenities we needed and wanted."

- David Spiller, President of Manufacturing, NUSIGN
