Baltimore, MD – Williams Scotsman, Inc. and Wellness Environments announce a strategic healthcare construction alliance that will transform the way certain healthcare facilities are designed and constructed. Williams Scotsman, the leading provider of mobile and modular facilities, and Wellness Environments, the single source provider of fully furnished clinical interior spaces, have joined forces to create WellnessSpaces™, an integrated healthcare solution that will provide turn-key space in about half the time of conventional construction. WellnessSpaces™ are an ideal solution for outpatient clinics, ambulatory surgical centers, critical access hospitals, emergency rooms, renal dialysis facilities, and other temporary swing space applications.

The combined experience of the two companies makes it possible to create a total facility solution for the healthcare industry, leveraging the benefits of rapid, economical and uniform installation of patient rooms and other clinical settings. Williams Scotsman's Concurrent Construction™ method can develop a building to house Wellness Environments' rooms in about half the time of traditional construction. Today's high quality, factory built modular buildings meet all the same stringent codes as site-built structures, but because site preparation, utility and foundation work occur simultaneously to the actual construction of the building off-site, the time to occupancy and positive cash flow is drastically reduced.

The seamless collaboration between Williams Scotsman and Wellness Environments allows for easy design integration, manufacturing, installation and project management for both renovation and new healthcare construction. WellnessSpaces™ can be configured – and easily reconfigured - for a variety of requirements and can be installed quickly. “We are very pleased to have reached a strategic alliance with Wellness Environments. The combined benefit of our respective competencies will be extremely beneficial to healthcare providers.”

Gerard E. Holthaus, Williams Scotsman, Inc.
Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer

“Combining efforts with Williams Scotsman is in alignment with our goal of being the leading provider of the most advanced point of care environments available for renovation and new construction in healthcare. We are excited to partner with such a fine organization.”

Jerrell W. Shelton, Wellness Environments
